

MOD RENEW CONTRACT WITH FREIGHTEX

The Ministry of Defence (MOD) has renewed its contract with Freightex to use its specialist software technology to optimise its road freight . The Freightex software gives a real-time view of available loads and allows the MODs selected suppliers to make offers to move the consignments on an open market basis. In this way the MOD is able to demonstrate that it has purchased the load movement at true market rates.

“In the current environment we understand how important it is for freight operations to be as efficient as possible,” said Tim Phillips CEO at Freightex. “We are continually honing our system so that it maximises advantages for our clients and are pleased the MoD see that our process adds value to their transport solution.”

Over the past decade, Freightex (formerly X4freight) has developed its software specifically for its freight exchange. More than just an ‘internet noticeboard’, Freightex’s multilingual operations team manages all aspects of logistics and service.
